Selex ES signs a contract with Poste Italiane to maintain sorting centers

Selex ES, a Finmeccanica company and the leader of a temporary consortium, has signed a three-year contract to provide a maintenance service for Poste Italiane hubs. The contract also provides the right for the customer to renew the agreement for another 24 months and includes options for further extensions. The service will be supplied by Selex ES in collaboration with another Italian company which specialises in logistics and comprises the maintenance and technical support of Poste Italiane mechanisation centres' mail sorting systems, which are based throughout Italy.

"This contract, given to us following a European competition that included the major international players, confirms the excellence of Selex ES's technology solutions and the quality of logistics services we offer to our customers in the postal domain," said Fabrizio Giulianini, CEO of Selex ES. "We are proud to once again put our skills at the disposal of Poste Italiane and are pleased to support and improve their innovation and competitiveness."

With over 40 years of experience in postal and logistics, Selex ES has played a crucial role since the early '70s as a partner of Poste Italiane in the modernisation of Italy's national postal capability: the Company has provided automated sorting systems and developed IT services to support the evolution of Poste Italiane's business in logistics, digital services and international markets.

Selex ES, which inherits the skills and heritage in postal automation technologies from the former SELEX Elsag, is today one of the leading international players in the postal domain. The Company offers a full range of technology and expertise in the integration of automated sorting and handling systems with ICT solutions and platforms.
